Numerous notes can be found throughout the map, describing the geography of the region. Two ships can be seen sailing on the ocean. Numerous cities are found throughout the map, and all the rivers discharging into the Black Sea are shown.

This map is copied after Ortelius's map which originally appeared in 1590. As in the Ortelius example, in the cartouche the name of the Black Sea, "Pontus Euxinus", is transcribed into Cyrillic lettering.
